

As an active flight attendant who travels to Asia and Europe, I strongly object to cellphone usage while in flight....first of all, it's a safety issue...other than possibly interfering with the aircraft's navigation and communication systems...the irritation and interruption to surrounding psgrs. provides an atmosphere for confrontation, arguments, etc....possibly escalating to an uncontrollable situation...i.e..promoting "air rage"....cell phones have become public nuisances in other environments (restaurants, theaters,etc....)...rudeness to others has prompted a "no cell phone usage" rule..and that's exactly the posture to maintain in flight...please don't provide another atmosphere that will most certainly cause disruption, and possibly worse in our environment.
